

A Braided River, Not a Tree

Human lineages split apart — then flowed back together through interbreeding. Some of their DNA rejoined our stream and survives today.